No provision.	Makes a license valid for two years and requires, for a licensee to renew a license, the licensee to complete continuing education requirements, pay a $25 fee, and meet other requirements.	No provision.	Same as the House for art therapy except allows CSWMFT to establish the biennial renewal schedule in rule, decreases the amount of continuing education required from 40 hours to 30 hours, and allows CSWMFT to establish the fee amount in rule, all of which is currently the same as for other licensees under the CSW Law. For music therapy, makes it a biennial license similar to art therapy instead of a triennial license as in the House-passed version, decreases the amount of continuing education required from 60 hours to 30 hours, and requires CSWMFT to set the fee amount in rule.
No provision.	Allows a licensee to treat affective, behavioral, and cognitive disorders or problems specified by the American psychiatric association designated by CSWMFT. Prohibits a licensee from administering or prescribing drugs and performing psychological testing intended to measure or diagnose serious mental illness.	No provision.	No provision.
No provision.	Allows CSWMFT to discipline a licensee for specified reasons, and lists the types of disciplinary actions that may be taken.	No provision.	Replaces the House provision with a provision that subjects licensed art therapists and music therapists to the same reasons for discipline and to the types of disciplinary actions as other licensees under the CSWMFT Law.
No provision.	Does not include a penalty for practicing without a license for art therapy.	No provision.	Establishes a criminal penalty (which is the same penalty for unlicensed practice for all other activities subject to the CSW Law).
